

ADMINISTRATIVE CODE BOARD OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

CATEGORY: TRANSPORTATION AND TRAFFIC MANAGEMENT	CODE NUMBER: AC-11-1
TITLE: FUNCTIONAL CLASSIFICATION OF ROADWAYS	ADOPTED: 10/11/05
	AMENDED: 08/17/2021
	ORIGINATING DEPARTMENT: DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION

I. PURPOSE/SCOPE

- A. Pursuant to the Lee Plan, functional classification is the process by which streets and highways are grouped into classes or systems, according to the character of service they are intended to provide. Lee Plan Policy 36.1.2. provides that the existing classification of roads will be set forth in the subject administrative code. Future classifications are identified on Lee Plan Map Exhibit II (Future Functional Classification Map).

- B. The purpose of this administrative code is to set forth the existing functional classification structure for major roadways maintained by Lee County. In addition, to determine the functional classification of each County-maintained roadway based on existing conditions. This administrative code includes an existing functional classification list determining the functional classification of all County-maintained roadways and certain non County-maintained roadways located in unincorporated Lee County as contemplated in Lee Plan Policy 36.1.2. It is the intent that the existing Functional Classification List will be an aid to programming of improvements, establishing design criteria, and the application of the County's land development regulations.

II. POLICY AND PROCEDURE

With the exception of the designation of freeways, expressways and controlled access facilities, the Director of the Department of Transportation will have the ultimate responsibility to determine the existing functional classification of county maintained roadways. The Director of Development Services will have the ultimate responsibility to determine the existing functional classification of non-County maintained roadways.

III. DEFINITIONS

Arterial, Principal – A type of arterial primarily intended to carry large volumes of through traffic for the longest trip demands between urban communities and major activity centers of the region. Access to abutting properties is a secondary function. Interstate highways, State highways, limited access facilities, freeways, expressways and controlled access facilities are examples of principal arterials.

Arterial, Minor – A street or highway primarily intended to carry large volumes of through traffic connecting major activity centers to other major traffic generators. Access to abutting properties is a secondary function.

Collector – streets having the primary purpose of collecting traffic from intersecting local streets and distributing this volume to the nearest arterial. A secondary purpose is to carry moderate volumes of through traffic. Access to abutting land uses is a secondary function.

Collector, Major – a type of collector street having the primary purpose of collecting traffic from intersecting local and minor collector streets and distributing this volume to the nearest arterial. A secondary purpose is to carry moderate volumes of through traffic. Access to abutting land uses is a secondary function.

Collector, Minor – a type of collector street having the primary purpose of collecting traffic from intersecting local streets and distributing this volume to the nearest major collector or arterial. As such, a minor collector street provides the linkage from neighborhoods (i.e., local streets) to the arterial system, and provides intra-neighborhood access. A minor collector provides access to abutting land uses as a secondary function.

Controlled Access Facility – An arterial roadway that is the subject of a Board of County Commissioners Resolution specifically designating the road as a controlled access facility and specifying the access points along the roadway corridor.

Expressway – An arterial highway, usually divided, designed for the safe and relatively unimpeded movement of large volumes of through traffic, with full or partial control of access and grade separations at most intersections. Expressways are established by Board of County Commissioner Resolution specifically designating the road as an expressway and specifying the access points along the roadway corridor.

Freeway – A type of limited access facility that is a divided arterial highway designed for the safe unimpeded movement of large volumes of traffic, with full control of access and grade separation at all intersections.

Limited Access Facility – A street or highway especially designed for through traffic. Owners or occupants of abutting land or other persons have no right or easement of access, light, air, or view. The right of access may have been donated by the property owner or purchased by the State or a local government.

Local Street – Streets with the primary function of serving the access needs of adjacent properties. As such, a local street provides the linkage from adjacent land uses to the collector street system. Through volume service is not a function of local streets.

Long Range Plan – Lee Plan Map Exhibit II, the Lee County Cost Feasible Roadway Projects.

Major roadway – A street or highway with a functional classification as an arterial or major collector.

Posted speed – The regulatory speed limit posted on a traffic control device along a street or highway.

State Highway – Roadways under the jurisdiction of the Florida Department of Transportation.

Traffic Volume – The Average Annual Daily Traffic (AADT) volume as reported in the latest edition of the Lee County Traffic Count Report. If none are available, a calculated AADT based on field measured traffic counts and data in the report.

Through traffic – Traffic on a street or highway driving the entire length of a road segment(s) between arterial streets as part of a trip to an origin or destination.

IV. FUNCTIONAL CLASSIFICATION LIST

Exhibit I attached contains the Existing Functional Classification List. The list includes each county maintained roadway determined to be an arterial or collector by the Director of the Department of Transportation and certain non-County maintained roadways determined to be an arterial or collector by the Director of the Department of Development Services. Exhibit II is a map which depicts the Existing Functional Classification List for informational purposes. The Existing Functional Classification List and map will be maintained by the Department of Transportation and may be updated, as necessary, to include any interim revisions.

The State Highway system has an established functional classification system set forth in Florida Administrative Code 14-97. Each local government determines functional classification for roadways under its own jurisdiction. It is not the purpose of the Existing Functional Classification List to determine the existing functional classification of State Highways or roadways maintained by other local governments for programming of improvements or establishing design criteria under their jurisdiction. However, it may be necessary to determine the existing functional classification of a State Highway or city maintained roadway for purposes of enforcement of County regulations within the jurisdiction of the county.

V. REVISIONS

The Director with ultimate responsibility for administratively approving interim revisions to the Existing Functional Classification List is set forth in Section II. If, in the professional judgment of the appropriate Director, a road segment belongs in a different classification, that Director may reclassify the segment.

Applicant's seeking to change the functional classification of a roadway on the Existing Functional Classification List must jointly petition the Directors of the Department of Transportation and Development Services. The petition must be written and set forth the reasoning behind the proposed change based on an engineering analysis of the roadway function including, but not limited to, the guidelines in Section IV. The Director(s) will issue a joint written administrative determination within 30 calendar days of receipt of the petition, indicating whether the proposed change is accepted or denied.

The administrative determination will stand until officially amended by the Board of County Commissioners as part of an update of the Existing Functional Classification List.
