

Sept. 11, 2017

Update from Lee County DOT and Lee County Emergency Management – noon Monday:

Additional bridges have been cleared by Lee County DOT for travel:

Midpoint Bridge (Cape Coral-Fort Myers)

Cape Coral Bridge (Cape Coral-Fort Myers)

Big Hickory Pass Bridge (Bonita Beach area)

It's anticipated all Lee County DOT bridges will have had structural reviews by Tuesday morning.

Note: Prior to Hurricane Irma, Lee County suspended tolls for its three toll bridges; that suspension remains in effect until further notice.

Road update from Lee DOT:

All Lee County-maintained arterial roads (major thoroughfare) and collector streets (roads that deliver traffic to arterials) will be cleared and passable by 1 p.m.

Previous release today: with Sanibel update

Lee County DOT has cleared the following bridges for travel as of Monday morning post-Irma:

Matlacha Bridge (on Greater Pine Island)

Big Carlos Pass Bridge (between Fort Myers Beach and Bonita Beach)

Lee County DOT has cleared the Sanibel Causeway for travel (between Punta Rassa and City of Sanibel). The City of Sanibel is only permitting first-responders to return at this time. It is expected residents will be able to return as of 3:00 p.m. today. Check with the City of Sanibel for further updates.
